

Satellite Radio is an invaluable service in general, a critical one in particular for those who travel widely in areas where traditional signals are intermittent and difficult to find. It is the future of radio in america: attempts to restrict by competing older technology are repressive, unfair, and contrary to the American spirit and to the progress of media in the U.S. Do not restrict its operation in any way.